ULSTER REFUSED VOICE AT PARLEY

Inverness Talk With Sinn Fein Just Preliminary to General Conference, Lloyd-George Tells Unionists —Sinn Fein Cabinet Considering Changes in Rejected Note.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 15.—The Ulster Unionists have requested representation at the proposed Irish peace conference at Inverness, but were refused by Premier Lloyd-George, it was learned this afternoon. The refusal was based upon the premier's contention that the conference with the Sinn Feiners is but a preliminary meeting and that later a general parley will be held when all Irish factions will be represented.

Dublin, Sept. 15.—Joseph McGrath and Harry Boland returned today with Eamonn de Valera's latest peace note which Premier Lloyd-George had refused to accept until it was revised and modified. The Sinn Fein cabinet went into session at 11 o'clock at Mansion House to discuss the situation.

The Irish newspapers intimate that a most serious hitch has occurred in peace proceedings, but they refuse to comment editorially.

When the Republican cabinet went into session, it was said the text of de Valera's letter might be made public this afternoon.

The Sinn Fein chieftain refused to comment upon the new developments. They intimated that the situation was so delicate they feared that they might complicate it still further by talking.

There is much significance in the fact that de Valera will not be a member of the Irish delegation if the Inverness peace conference is held as planned. Arthur Griffith, the chairman, and Michael Collins, commander in chief of the Irish Republican army, who were nominated by Dail Eireann as two of the members, are known as two of the most radical leaders among the Sinn Feiners.

Andrew B. Keating, son-in-law of Isaac T. Meersean, and who is well known in this city, was elected leader of the 13th district in New York city on Tuesday. It was a notable achievement for Mr. Keating, as he ran on the Independent Democratic ticket, his opponent being the strongest candidate the Democratic organization could put up. The many friends of Mr. Keating of this city will be pleased to hear of his success.

MILLION FIRE LOSS AT ROCKAWAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 15.—Three square blocks of buildings at Rockaway Beach, a Long Island shore resort, are in ruins today and hundreds of vacationists are thankful for a narrow escape following a fire which is believed to have been started by a gay season's-end party in a frame cottage.

The damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

Most of the guests of the larger hotels had left for the summer but discovery of the flames made it necessary to warn from the threatened district all who were asleep in bungalows, tents and cottages. As a result the streets were filled with pajama clad persons, who stood in the early morning chill watching the sparks fly and the flames destroy the houses they had just left.

Two hundred children, in St. Malachy's' Home, three blocks from the blaze, were awakened, dressed and held ready for fire drill, but the flames were extinguished before the home was threatened.

Several firemen were overcome in the thick smoke, but were rescued by comrades.

TWO NEEDS AT NURSES' HOME

The nurses of the Benedictine Hospital have now moved into their fine, new headquarters in the nurses' home. But two things seem lacking to make them as happy as comfortable. There are no books on the bookshelves in the attractive library, and there is no music to be heard other than the cheery voices of the nurses themselves.

Under the circumstances, gifts of worth while books—books such as one friend would give to another friend whose friendship they valued—would be most acceptable and gratefully appreciated.

Perhaps, too, there may be some one in the city who has a victrola that they would be willing to give to the home, or there may be some talking machine dealer who would like to immortalize the generosity of the firm he is agent for by donating a victrola to the nurses for their new home. If the talking machine were given, surely there would be many kind people who would contribute records.

SEASON'S ROAD WORK RESULTS

The new concrete highway which is being constructed from New Paltz to Highland will not be completed this year but the work of laying concrete probably will begin within a short time.

Up to this time the Sperry Contracting Company, which is doing the work, has been engaged in grading and in building culverts. It is not expected that more than two or two and one-half miles of concrete will be laid this year. Highland and Poughkeepsie merchants expect a large amount of additional business with the completion of the road.

The work on the Rosendale road is practically completed and the road will be turned over to the state by the contractors this fall.

Repair work on the New Paltz-Rifton road is progressing. A considerable stretch near New Paltz remains to be repaired. The road throughout the spring and early summer was considered one of the worst in the county and was avoided as much as possible by motorists from that section.

The repair work on the Kingston-Ellenville road is making rapid progress but some sections are still in such condition as to require great caution on the part of automobilists. As far as the repair work has been carried, the road is in fine condition.

CONFERENCE AT ST. MARK'S CHURCH

Delegates From All Over State Attending—Wednesday's Sessions Including Organization—Reports Show District Churches Flourishing.

The District Conference of the Albany District of the New York Annual Conference is in session in the St. Mark's A. M. E. Church, the Rev. A. L. Hughes pastor, the Rev. Charles E. Wilson, D. D. of Brooklyn, presiding elder of district presiding. The devotional exercises Wednesday were conducted by the Rev. J. M. Proctor of Chatham, N. Y., the Rev. P. A. Bun Campes of Coxsackie, N. Y. and the Rev. Dr. Frederick of Albany, N. Y.

The Rev. Dr. Wilson then delivered an excellent and instructive discourse. The organization was perfected after the sermon. The Rev. L. Walter De Shields of Kinderhook, N. Y. was elected the chief secretary, the Rev. H. G. Gregg, D. D. of Middletown was elected the assistant secretary.

The reports of the various churches rendered showed the districts under the present administration to be in a most flourishing condition. Delegates are present from all over the state. At 8 p. m. the Allen C. E. League session was held by Mrs. Frances E. Hebbons of New York city, state superintendent of the League. An interesting address was delivered by Mrs. Hebbons. The singing was inspiring. At 8:45 p. m. the Rev. Dr. Gregg of Middletown, N. Y. was introduced and delivered an interesting discourse. A paper was read by the Rev. Dr. R. J. Robinson of Albany, N. Y. The services were well attended all day.

METHODIST FIELD DAY AT CAIRO

A splendid success, is the opinion of all who attended the Methodist field day at the Greene county fair grounds, Cairo, on Tuesday last. A conservative estimate of the attendance is 500, which represented 23 charges of the Kingston district, that number of the preachers in charge being present. The addresses given during the day were of a very high order and on varied subjects, dealing as they did with the foreign mission field, the congested sections of our great cities and the rural church problems, and finally the centennary movement which Dr. Dent pointed out is solving these problems today as never before.

Interesting athletic contests were indulged in both by ministers and laymen. Also the boys and girls were provided for. The tug of war between ministers and laymen probably created the most interest and was easily won by the latter.

Dr. G. W. Grinton, the genial district superintendent, presided throughout the day, and with his cheery, optimistic spirit added much to the day of inspiration and enjoyment.

A resolution was unanimously passed to make this feature an annual affair of the Kingston district of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

OPEN SHOP IN PACKING PLANTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Sept. 15—"The open shop" prevails today in the plants of four of the largest meat packers in the country. Armour and Company, Swift and Company, Wilson and Company and the Cudahy Packing Company, announced the inauguration of the "American shop representation" system of dealing with their employes. Labor unions, under this plan, are not recoguized by the packers.

The announcement of the adoption of the shop representation plan followed the expiration of the Alschuler agreement under which federal Judge Samuel Alschuler was arbiter of all disputes between the packers and their employes. The packers previously had served notice they would not renew this agreement, which they regarded as a war time measure.

It as announced by James G. Condon, attorney for the packers, that 90 per cent of the employes of the plants involved had voted for adoption of the new plan.

TRENCH WARFARE AT HIGHLAND

Highway Workers Were Compelled to Stop Work on Private Property Until Owner Received Proper Protection.

The authorities of the town of Lloyd desired to drain the roadway in the village of Highland and it was necessary to put a drain through the premises of Mrs. Decker. The county superintendent issued the certificate authorizing the town authorities to go through the premises of Mrs. Decker.

Ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, who was in Highland on other business, was called in the matter by Mrs. Decker, and as the authorities had not made proper arrangements for the compensation and protection of Mrs. Decker, Mr. Brinnier ordered the men to stop work and also directed Mrs. Decker's son-in-law to fill in the trench they were digging. Mrs. Decker and her daughter stepped into the trench and the men digging could not work and had to stop their operation.

A truce was entered into. The work was stopped until the town board could meet Wednesday night to make arrangements for adjusting the matter with Mrs. Decker. The meeting was held and the town board made the provision to pay her for the dram and also made an agreement to forever maintain the drain in proper condition and to furnish a $1,000 bond to protect her property from any damages by blasting that might be necessary in digging the trench.

HIGHLAND MAN MISSING.

Charles DeGraff Disappeared Three Weeks Ago.

The Poughkeepsie police were asked Tuesday to aid in the search for Charles DeGraff, 52 years of age, who disappeared from Highland over three weeks ago. The man was boarding with Mrs. A. R. Brundage and since his disappearance he has not been seen in Highland nor in the neighborhood.

Friends of the man fear that he has attempted to commit suicide as he had complained of feeling ill and said that he had heart trouble. It is thought he may have wandered down to the Hudson, ending his life by drowning in the river.

He is described as being 5 feet, 7 inches tall, he weighed 130 pounds, was of a slim build, he wore a blue or brown suit, and a straw hat, he had a gray mixed mustache. Any information should be sent to Mrs. Brundage in Highland.

PLATT LIKES TO HELP HIMSELF

But it Gets Him in Trouble When He Borrows Another's Car for a Two Days' Auto Trip—Cases in Police Court.

Alfred Martin Platt, 22 years old, of Whiteport, has the acquired habit of helping himself to another's automobile, and as a result it has caused his appearance in police court before Judge Schirick, before whom he appeared today, but not under arrest, as Fred Balzer, whose auto Platt had borrowed, did not care to press a charge of larceny against the Whiteport youth.

From Balzer's story to Judge Schirick, it appeared that Platt had helped himself to the car on Tuesday, taking it from Parker's garage, and did not return to Kingston with the car until 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, when he was escorted to the city hall by Officer Keresman. Mr. Balzer did not lodge any charge against Platt and said he would appear this morning. Platt was allowed to go on his promise to appear also.

The Balzer car had been considerably damaged while in Platt's possession, and Mr. Balzer said that Platt had agreed to adjust the damages with him.

Judge Schirick informed Platt that Kingston could get along just as well without him, and advised him to stay in Whiteport on his father's farm, where he could spend his time more profitably than here. He was also warned to get rid of the habit of borrowing another's car.

They Were Fighting.

Wednesday evening Officer Welch arrested Fred Mowers, 19 years old, of No. 30 Chambers street, and Theodore DeWitt, 17 years old, of No. 51 South Pine street, both negro lads, on a charge of fighting on the public street. The arrest was made at the corner of Hasbrouck and Foxhall avenues.

This morning both were arraigned before Judge Schirick in police court, and from the story brought out it developed that both had been attending a Sunday school convention in the Foxhall Avenue Church, and that DeWitt had called Mowers a number of names. Outside the church DeWitt struck Mowers first, and Mowers retorted with a blow and the fight was on.

Judge Schirick fined DeWitt $5 for starting the fight, and discharged Mowers under a suspended sentence on his plea of guilty to disorderly conduct.

Highway matters affecting the Hudson valley and many other questions of development probably will be discussed.

MUST PICK CANDIDATE.

Tie Vote Between Schuler and Bowers Makes Vacancy.

The vote cast in the county on Tuesday, primary day, is being canvassed by the board of elections. The county central committeemen of the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition parties and the delegates to the state and judicial conventions will soon be notified of their election. Under the election law the various county committees must meet within twenty days to organize and choose a chairman and secretary. Such meetings will not be held until after the state conventions, which will be held next week. In the case of the tie vote between Joseph Schuler and Anthony Bowers, who sought nomination for supervisor on the Democratic ticket, it is said that under the election law the tie makes a vacancy, the nomination to be filled by the Democratic city committee. September 19 is the last day for the board of elections to certify to the secretary of state the results of the primary election.

JAPS OBSTACLE TO PROGRAM UNITY

Other Powers Are Falling In Line As To Washington Conference Program But Tokio Wants To Keep Out Far Eastern Matters Where Her Course Has Been Questionable.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept 15—The lead which the United States assumed in the cause of worldwide limitation of armament by inviting the principal world powers to a conference has been extended to cover nearly every phase of the forthcoming November meeting, it developed today.

Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan as the principal powers involved, are content to sit back and let Washington do the proposing. Some few objections to what this government has proposed have been encountered—principally from Japan, but in the main the participating powers have indicated a willingness to follow the American lead.

This government originated the conference idea and proposed the meeting place; it suggested the subjects to be discussed, limitation of armament and Far Eastern affairs; it suggested the inclusion of Belgium and Holland because of their holdings in the Pacific.

Its latest suggestions covered the details of the conference program, as reported in International News Service dispatches of Saturday.

Suggestions of the United States relative to the specific subjects to be discussed are now under consideration in London, Tokio, Paris and Rome. To date no answers to the American proposals have been received and officials were not hopeful of quick responses. It is realized that the conference agenda is the knottiest problem to be worked out in advance of the gathering, and considerable dickering and exchange of views will be necessary, it is expected before it is reduced to a state agreeable to all the powers.

Little difficulty is expected in reaching an agreement concerning the agenda with Great Britain, France or Italy. What difficulties there are will be expected from Tokio. Japan has a lively interest in keeping out of discussions relating to Shantung, Siberia, and other Far Eastern matters where her policies have been subjected to criticism.

TWO BLACK CATS.

"Me-ow, me-ow, I have some news to tell you," said Bobby Black cat.

"Meow, me-ow, me-ow, I'd like to hear it," said Benny Black Cat.

The two cats had been sitting on a glass roof which was over a big dining room or restaurant where people ate.

"On Some One's Shoulder."

Often the cats would jump down and land on some one's shoulder or upon the tables, as the glass roof was opened up in the summer time.

Then, too, the cats would walk along the fences outside the restaurant and the people would look up at them as they walked.

Sometimes they had games and chased each other about and had merry scrambles

"What is the piece of news you have to tell me?" asked Benny Black Cat.

"Now that I think of it," he added, "I have a piece of news to tell you I must be sure to tell it to you, too, but you tell me your piece of news first."

"All right," said Benny Black Cat, "all right, me-ow, me-ow, I will tell you my piece of news first."

"Continue," said Benny Black Cat. "I am waiting to hear, for then I will tell you my piece of news as I said I would, and by that time the people will be through eating and it will be time for our meal."

"Yes, and it isn't right to be late to meals," said Benny Black Cat. "That is something that isn't right at all. And it isn't polite

"When I see my meal ready for me I go right to my meal and never have to be called a second time."

"I'm the same way," said Benny Black Cat, "I believe in being on time to meals."

"I heard," said Bobby Black Cat, "that there was a very bright cousin of ours who used to use a door knocker every time he wanted to go into the house where he belonged."

"Couldn't he have walked straight in?" asked Benny Black Cat.

"Of course, as a rule he could have done so. But then, at times, the door was closed and it was at such times that this cat climbed up and moved the door knocker.

"Whenever he did this he was let in at once, and petted and told what a fine cat he was. 'Isn't that an interesting piece of news from the Cat World?' asked Bobby Black Cat.

"It most certainly is," said Benny Black Cat. "I like to hear things like that for it makes folks see how smart a cat can be, and of course I think they should think that. Don't you, Bobby?"

"I do by all means," said Bobby. "That was why I was so delighted to be able to tell you this piece of news. And now, let me hear the piece of news you have to tell me."

"I will tell it to you at once," said Benny Black Cat. "I heard the other day of some people who kept their city apartment open all summer. And they went away themselves in the summer.

"They kept their apartment open for their cat! He was ten years old and they loved him so dearly, and yet where they went in the summer cats weren't much wanted. They went boarding, and when folks go boarding they can't do the same as they would in their homes.

"But these people kept the apartment open for their cat. And the janitor used to give him his food every day, and he would sit in the sunny window, which was opened for him every morning, and enjoy the bright summer day.

"Moved the Door Knocker."

"Sometimes he would be taken by one of the janitor's children out for an airing, but he was pretty old and he didn't care so much about walking. Some cats, of course, live to be much older than that, but this cat was finding his age."

"Wonderful, wonderful," said Bobby Black Cat. "But what is a janitor?"

"A janitor is a person who looks after an apartment house and who generally attends to things."

"Including the cat," said Bobby Black Cat. "Well, that is fine. I'm glad to hear of people so devoted to their cat, and of a cat who is allowed to look out of the window or sit in the sun or do whatever he pleases. That is a fine piece of news, Benny Black Cat.

"Me-ow, me-ow, that is a fine piece of news."

GAS BUGGIES—The fable of the musical horn

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

A college for women which does not send back to her home the daughter more willing and capable to enter into the home problems and solve them with heartiness and grace is not an institution of learning. It is an institution of unlearning.—Frank W. Gunsaulus.

SUMMERY GOOD THINGS.

For the woman who likes to cook and prepare dainty food, there is no pleasure greater to her than an occasional visit to an up-to-date lunch room where she may order a lunch and at the same time gain new ideas in garnishing and serving food combinations

Peppermint Candy Ice Cream.—Add to partly frozen unflavored ice cream one-half cupful each of seeded raisins, chopped pecan meats and shredded almonds, with one cupful of peppermint candy crushed fine. Pack in a mold and when unmolded garnish with whipped cream streaked with red coloring. This is done by drawing a fork dipped in color through the cream.

Ice Cream, Lillian Russell.—Heat one quart of milk and one cupful of double cream, one cupful of sugar until lukewarm (not over 100 degrees), add one junket tablet crushed and dissolved in a tablespoonful of water. Mix thoroughly and let stand in a warm room until the mixture is thick, then chill and freeze. Serve in chilled muskmelon. Sprinkle with cinnamon over the top of the cream in each melon.

Peach Shortcake. — Prepare and bake a rich biscuit mixture. Spread one layer with butter and thinly sliced peeled peaches well sugared, then put on the other layer and cover with more of the prepared peaches. On top place halves of choice peaches, dredge with sugar, then pipe a rosette of sweetened whipped cream in the hollow of each half peach. This may be served in individual shortcakes, making a very attractive dessert.

Rhubarb Jam.—Select the red stalks of rhubarb, leaving as much of the red of the peeling on it as possible, cut up into half-inch stalks, weigh and add an equal weight of sugar; let stand over night. For each three pounds of fruit add the grated rind and juice of a lemon, let simmer for a half-hour after boiling one hour. Just before taking off the fire add one ounce of sliced blanched almonds

Farm on Bed of Lake.

It seemed impossible to read the heading, "A Cultivated Lake," without wondering whether any of the inhabitants of the lake were cultured, like some oysters. The lake in question is Lake Cirknitz in mideastern Europe. The most cultured occupants turned out to be the human beings who sow and harvest on the lake bottom in summer, the waters having departed suddenly through great fissures in the bed of the lake. In the autumn the waters return as rapidly as they went, throwing up cascades of foam as if from blowholes. Presumably the lake is fed in winter by water coming to it underground from a body of water higher in the mountains and, in turn, empties into some lower lying basin.—Christian Science Monitor.

Oysters' Liver Complaint.

Two professors in physics at London university, England, are conducting exhaustive tests on behalf of the Daily Mail, with a view to finding a possible difference between ordinary and Japanese pearls. A Japanese pearl is produced by inserting a seed pearl or morsel of pearl into the liver of the oyster.

Mr. Alfred E. Calvert, a fellow of the chemical society, stated recently that the several specimens of Japanese pearls he possesses are identical in weight, color and luster with ordinary pearls, and they are produced by the oyster from the same material and by the same process as the other variety.

Africa Gave Us the Peanut.

The first peanuts were brought to America by African slaves, who were landed in Virginia, on the James river. Some few of the original lot of peanuts were not eaten. They dropped on the ground, were covered with soil, sprouted, and gave rise to the first peanut vines. From then on the industry was made. It reached its first great stage about 60 years ago, when Tom Rowland advertised in America the hand-harvest of the peanut, and thereby established the trade which has made Norfolk famous.

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

©, Western Newspaper Union

SCOUT CALLED "TAM-E-YUKH-TAH" (CUT-OFF LEG)

Amos Chapman was a scout for Gen. Nelson A. Miles in the war with the southern plains tribes in 1874. One day, with Billy Dixon ("Hasta"—Long Hair) and four soldiers he was carrying dispatches from Miles' camp on McClelland creek in Texas to Camp Supply, Indian Territory, when they were surrounded by a war party of 125 Commanches and Kiowas

At the first fire from the Indians Private Smith fell from his horse. His companions, believing him dead, dismounted, abandoned their horses, and ran to a buffalo wallow, a depression in the ground about 100 yards away. The two scouts worked swiftly with their knives deepening the wallow while the three soldiers kept up a hot fire against the savages, who were riding at full speed in a fast-narrowing circle around them.

Suddenly Chapman noticed Private Smith trying to rise. "Boys, keep these infernal redskins off me and I'll run back and get Smith," he said to his companions. He laid down his rifle, sprang from the wallow, and under a hail of Indian bullets ran to where Smith lay. Throwing himself beside the wounded man, the scout pulled Smith on his back and rose. As he staggered back towards the wallow, 15 Indians rode for him at full speed.

Dixon and his comrades opened up with a fiercer fire to protect Chapman in his dash for safety. When he was only 20 yards from the wallow an Indian rode almost on top of him and fired. The scout fell, but since he did not feel any pain, he believed he had only stepped into a hole.

"Amos, you are badly hurt!" exclaimed Dixon as Chapman dropped beside him.

"No, I am not," declared the scout.

"Look at your leg," replied "Hasta," and when Chapman looked he saw that one leg was shot off just above the ankle. He had been walking on the bone and dragging the foot behind him, but in the excitement of the moment he did not know it. His friends amputated the foot, bound up the wounds, held out against the assaults of the Indians until they were rescued by a company of soldiers. Their brave defense won special mention in General Miles' dispatches, and Chapman was given a medal of honor for his heroic act. Ever since that fight the Indians have called him "Tam-e-yukh-tah" or "The Man with the Cut-Off Leg."

SPORT COAT HAS CALL IN FRANCE

Paris Dressmakers Are Busy on Garments Which Are Done in Bold Designs.

BLACK AND RED COMBINATION

Bright and Dark Shades Are Among the Favorites—Somber Linings Are Used by Way of Contrast.

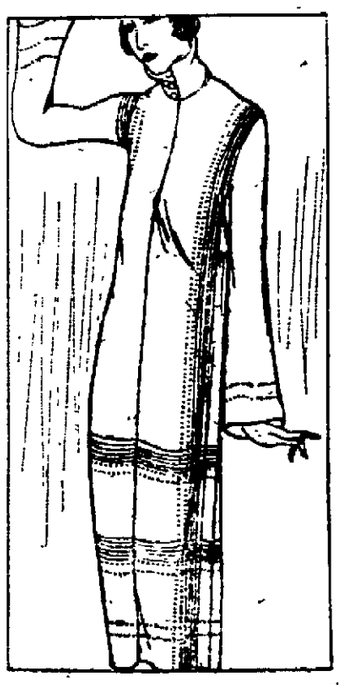
All of the Paris dressmakers are now very busy on automobile and sport coats, writes a fashion correspondent. The Parisienne is going in for sports as never before. Golf clubs near Paris are the center of great social activity. La Boulie, which is near Versailles, and St. Cloud, so near Paris, are daily rendezvous for the smart set. Chantilly and Fontainebleau, both of which have interesting golf courses, are favorite resorts for week-ends, and thus the sport coat has come to be an essential part of the Frenchwoman's wardrobe. Consequently designers have given it much attention. Dressmakers who had the forethought to anticipate this demand are now reaping a harvest.

Madeleine et Madeleine are going especially well with their models, "Dans le Train" and "Sport." Both of these are eminently suitable for the uses which their names imply. Both are developed in very smart looking tissues from Rodier, who has the best novelties woven in the loudest of patterns and yet conforming to good taste and refinement. They are most characteristic of this great French manufacturer.

Vivid Colorings in Sport Coats.

The features of these new coats which impress one most forcibly are the colors and bold designs of the fabrics. The materials themselves make such a strong appeal and are so suggestive of out-of-doors that few women can resist them. The colors are very gay. There is a strong tendency toward black and red combinations—the dull, rusty reds enlivened here and there with a brighter shade of the same color, sometimes running into scarlet.

One can imagine nothing more enchanting than the warm yellows, vivid greens and the lovely cool grays of these fabrics broken with stripes and borders in black woven at just the right intervals to produce a striking effect. The clever manner in which dressmakers and tailors are handling these bold-patterned novelties plays no small part in the successful vogue of coats made from them.



Motor Coat of Novelty Fabric in Vivid Green Wool With Stripes and Tiny Pin Dots in Black.

In outline the coats show little that is new. They are all very slender, unusually so for this type of wrap. There are many capes but even these are of the straight variety and not at all ample. The Russian blouse style is in evidence, although a bit unusual for a motor or traveling coat.

New Neckline Treatment in Coats.

Since the outside is so gay, linings, by way of contrast, are somewhat somber. Black crepe de chine frequently is used for this purpose, or the dullest shade of the plaid is selected.

In most instances sleeves are long and flowing. Bell sleeves may in turn have bell cuffs, perhaps double cuffs of this sort.

Madeleine et Madeleine cannot resist introducing their very low waistline even in coats. In the model "Dans le Train" inverted box plaits are the method by which this pronouncedly low waistline is defined.

Collars are high, although the shawl collar also is used. The high collars all spring from a low base. That is, the neckline is considerably cut out so that the collar starts far out on the shoulders and comes up in a swelling sort of way about the ears.

With materials showing so much action in the way of design little trimming is needed, but we still see fringes used, although they are applied in new ways, being in little points or clusters rather than in rows.

Originates Continental Mannish.

Paton, the man tailor who is enjoying a great following in Paris, is selling very successfully at the present time his model called "Tipperary." English as to its name, although made of a French fabric interwoven with all the soul-stirring hues of the Scottish clans. The model hangs straight front and back, with what little fullness there is massed on the hips just at the point where the sleeves join the body of the coat. The collar is straight and mufling. The sleeves are bell shaped.

Agnes has a successful model called Paillasse, also developed in a plaid wool tissue. It is in Russian blouse style and also has the high collar and large bell sleeves. A fancy Rodier material woven and embroidered in green and yellow plaid was chosen for it.

The same maker has brought out a coat of a slightly more dressy type made of blue repp and trimmed with elaborate embroideries, facings of white broadcloth and a black silk fringe, which latter falls from the sleeve motifs and edges the ends of the girdle.

Another popular model of this latter type from Agnes is developed from black crepe Marocain with collar and cuffs of white taffeta. The embroidered motifs are in black, and suspended from these, at well spaced intervals, are bands of black silk fringe.

Plaids and Profuse Patterns.

Black and black and white combinations are still very popular, although no longer exclusive. Heavy crepe Marocain continues to be much in evidence for the wrap and the craze for the cape coat or mantle, usually in black, made on the simplest possible lines, often with embroidery in self-tone, still continues. There is also a continued use of black monkey fur as a trimming. These silk and lightweight cloth coats, although simple enough for the daytime, are sufficiently dressy for informal evening wear.

Any number of capes of Rodier plaids made on the order of the English traveling cloak have been imported to this country. An unusually smart one by Premet is of gray, brick and bright red plaid wool. Brick color and bright red are an unusual combination. One might judge from reading about it that the cloth has an extremely bizarre appearance. But not so. The brick and gray are merely brightened here and there with touches of bright red blended in a well-thought-out way to make a fabric very much out of the ordinary.

The cape is straight with slit armholes and a long, straight collar which crosses to one side and fastens with a large composition button showing the same artistic blending of gray, red and brick color.

There is a fad of the moment for a tiny automobile parasol to accompany the motor coat. The silk top of these sunshades is not over twelve inches deep. The handles show lifelike heads of the Normandy peasants, hand carved in wood and painted in colors. White-faced Pierrot with his big back ruff, too, is here.

ABOUT THE NEWEST HOSIERY

Stocking of Chiffon Trimmed With Open Work Design, One of the Favored Fashions.

One of the newest things in the hosiery world is the stocking of chiffon trimmed with an open work design. The drop stitch stocking, it is said, is not in such demand as it was a few months ago.

For sport wear a heavy ribbed hose in wool is excellent. For the woman who cannot wear this ticklish weave, a silk and wool mixture is shown. Another way in which this difficulty may be overcome is to wear two pairs of hose, the inner pair being of thin silk, while the outer one is of the wool. The favorite shades for sport wear are brown, dark blue and black.

Speaking of colors, a very dark brown called African is now considered as staple a color as black. For evening wear besides the stockings which match the gown there is a strong demand for gold and silver, partly because these colors are used so much for the slippers themselves.

DAMS WILL PREVENT FLOODS

Catastrophe That Overwhelmed the City of Pueblo Can Be Avoided by Proper Action.

A disastrous flood occurs, causing a loss of many human lives and millions of dollars' worth of property. What happens next? What precautions are taken to prevent disaster?

Usually what happens is that the suffering community courageously undertakes the task of reconstruction. The flood is called an "act of God," and confidence is felt that there will be no repetition of the calamity. But the conditions that gave rise to the disaster continue to exist, and such being the case, there is no assurance that it will not repeat itself.

If the catastrophe that overwhelmed the city of Pueblo is not to be repeated, again and yet again perhaps, preventive measures must be adopted. Dams must be built and reservoirs constructed at the headwaters of the Arkansas river to impound its floods.

The government reclamation service points out that floods not less destructive might occur in any year on the Rio Grande if the waters of that stream were not held in leash by the great Elephant Butte dam. Before that dam, with its vast reservoir, was constructed, flood time and again wrecked havoc in the vicinity of El Paso.

The Elephant Butte dam is one of the greatest engineering works on the globe. It is 301 feet high, nearly one-third of a mile long, and creates the largest irrigation reservoir in the world—an artificial lake covering 42 square miles and averaging 70 feet in depth. The water contained in the reservoir would cover the whole state of Connecticut to a depth of ten inches.

Development of similar works on the headwaters of the Arkansas river would not only prevent future floods, but would store water for irrigating hundreds of thousands of acres, and furnish water power for all the manufacturing industries in that part of the country.

Small Clouds on Jupiter.

Prof. W. H. Pickering, in a recent address before the British Astronomical association, recalled the fact that during his observations at Arequipa he noticed that the surface of Jupiter, instead of being composed of uniform bands of yellowish white or brown, really consisted of an enormous number of extremely minute reddish brown clouds seen upon a perfectly white background. The effect of this was produced where the cloudlets were numerous, and the light spaces where they were scarce. He compared the appearance of these spots to the well-known "rice grains" on the sun. Their length lay in the direction of rotation of the planet. He said he had since observed the cloudlets in Jamaica, and they have been seen in England by Phillips and Stevenson.—Scientific American.

A FRANK LABOR LEADER.

The Labor Day address of Mr. Vaccarelli, president of the Longshoreman's Union, has inevitably attracted much attention. He boldly charged that there would be much less unemployment now if men who had been held on strike, "in some instances for reasons that in the present situation are trivial, were permitted to go back to work." He added to this the interesting statement that men had gone outside of their trades for employment, and that more than a million had quit the Federation in the last two years, because of these practices. He is quoted further as follows: "Trade unions are no longer a guarantee of steady work at good wages—that is, trade unions that function as many of the Federation unions do. On the contrary, in some, not in all, of the unions, what with a constant succession of unnecessary strikes and criminally blundering leadership, their members are working a very small percentage of the time. When the workers know that by joining the Federation they guarantee themselves regular work at fair wages, instead of irregular, strike-interrupted temporary jobs, the Executive Council will not have to start a drive to get a million new members."

All this tends to confirm the growing impression that in these times labor unions are not only unreasonable in their demands but are managed in the interests of their high-salaried officials rather than in the interests of the workers themselves. Such a condition of affairs doubtless accounts for much of the needless disturbance in the labor field.

The general public should pay heed to remark of Secretary Hughes that the conference to be held in October is not a "disarmament" conference but a "limitation of armament" conference. Continued misuse of the expression "disarmament" leaves the impression that the purpose of the conference is to reach an agreement for entire abandonment of national armaments, and, with such a result not reached, there would be a feeling that the conference had failed. As a matter of fact, no one expects that there will be an agreement for either disarmament or for any material immediate reduction in armament. The term "limitation" of armament means merely that the nations desire to put an end to the competition in building navies, air fleets and other war accessories. If there can be a check to expansion, the time may soon come when there will be a gradual reduction.

There is manifestly a lot of looseness in all the talk about the extent of unemployment. One estimator put it at 2,000,000 unemployed, and another estimator, who knew no more about the facts, raised it a million, and in a few days some one else added a million more, and so on until now the papers are talking about 6,000,000 unemployed—a perfectly ridiculous estimate. Unquestionably there are more men today than there are jobs, but there are not 6,000,000 jobless men who want work, nor anywhere near that number. If you want to know something about the actual number of men who want work, go out and try to hire somebody to do an odd job around your premises.

When Col. Henry Watterson said the other day that prohibition is making us a nation of "liars and hypocrites" perhaps he had partly in mind the official permission given American ships to open their bars after passing the three-mile limit, in order to be able to compete for business with "wet" foreign ships. The advertised sailings of United States Mail Line steamers in the London Times also announce in large type—"Choice Wines, Spirits and Liqueurs." Of course such important information is more quietly disseminated on this side.

Those Southerners who became incensed at the offer of President Harding to render any aid the Federal Government could extend in the pellagra situation, should remember that it was a Southerner appointed to the office by President Wilson who gave the president the information regarding pellagra conditions. The Harding administration has no intention of forcing medical assistance upon any state, but it stands ready to extend aid to any state in an emergency, if asked to do so by the proper authorities.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Is it true that milkweed can be cooked and eaten as a substitute for asparagus?

2. Is it true that dogs were originally wolves?

3. Does any bird drum except the grouse?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. I saw a large bird about the size of a small goose walking in the field. It had a white head and the rest of it was brown. Can you tell me what it is?

No, not with so little detail. No date of the observation is given. If in winter the bird might have been the red phalarope, both male and female having white heads and grayish backs in winter, but in summer they are not white headed. A bald eagle has a white head, but would not be seen walking in a field. The killdeer plover would be in a good guess for build, but its head is only partly white, with conspicuous black crown and band running below the eye.

2. Do fishes show any care for their young?

Generally speaking, no. They have no responsibility for the welfare of the eggs or newly hatched young. (In the case of salmon death follows spawning.) But the male of the fresh water sickle-back builds a nest of aquatic vegetation, and guards the eggs and the young through infancy.

3. Is anything known of the home life of apes?

Not much reliable information exists, but the belief is that they live like human families to the extent that an adult pair, with offspring (one usually an infant that must be carried) generally travel together. As the young gain strength, and new infants are born, requiring the parents' care, the older children seem to be thrust out of the family, and in time form groups of their own.

WEEK'S WEATHER AND THE CROPS

Abnormally warm and mostly dry weather continued during the past week. Showers were quite general on the 11th, but were light and of little benefit except in a few localities, according to the weather and crop conditions for the week ending September 13, sent out from the Ithaca office of the weather bureau. The water supply in many sections is very low, with reports that some wells have already gone dry.

Silo filling is at its height. Grain corn continues generally in excellent condition and is earing heavily in most sections. Much plowing and seeding of winter grain has been done. The buckwheat harvest has begun but the reported yields are generally only fair, due mostly to the continuance of hot, dry weather. Potato digging is well under way with generally poor yields. The crop is suffering from the lack of moisture.

Pastures in nearly all sections are very short and dry; much foddering has been necessary. Fruit is developing rapidly and grapes are going to market from the Lake Erie vineyards.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Murphy are spending September at their cottage. The Mary Margaret has as their guests during the summer Edward Mahem, Addie De Vere, Mrs. H. Hoeft, Henry Hoeft, A. J. McIntyre, Julia A. Englert, Dr. and Mrs. Bookbinder, all of Brooklyn, who were loud in their praises of Rosendale and surrounding country.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Meany in upper Rosendale was prettily decorated Monday evening on the fifth anniversary birthday party of little Alice. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Murphy, Anna Pollock, Mary Murray, Stephen and Regina Meany. Many pretty presents were received by the little lady who has spent all of her five summers in Rosendale. Mr. Meaney is connected with the New York Telephone Co., and resides in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn.

Father Higgins is still busy. The entire church buildings look very pretty in the new coat of paint. The city people are very fond of Father Higgins. His democratic manner is very pleasing and they respond generously to his collections.

The business men of Main street hope in the near future to hold a celebration in honor of the new state road through the village.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

As was usually the case, the proprietor of the dance hall took a liking to Jim, who always displayed so much enthusiasm in tackling a new job and managed to keep a smiling countenance no matter what the provocation, that only a soured cynic could keep from liking him.

So when the proprietor learned that at the close of two days in the bowling alley Jim was planning to leave, he asked him to stay on. "Several reports have been coming in about the young folks. How would you like to act as a sort of plain clothes man, to keep your eye out for pickpockets, flirts and such like?"

Policing a dance hall was a new proposition to Jim and he was glad to accept the task, for according to his uncle's will he must change his job every two days in order to inherit his money. So he accepted the task. As a whole, the crowd at the dance hall was orderly. There was a regular policeman on hand all the time, but Jim found that there were a number of things going on unknown to him.

During the course of the evening he had to speak to several men and women, but nothing serious came to his attention until the second evening. Then he didn't know at first sight how serious it might be. He had been noticing the girl all evening, an attractive young lady who seemed to be hardly out of her girlhood. She had danced time and again with a man who, Jim had heard, was the idle son of a wealthy New Yorker. Jim came upon the couple late in the evening as they were sitting in an alcove.

"Please take me home, Harry. Mother will give me an awful scolding for staying out so late," she was saying.

"Be a sport kid. It isn't late till it's early, and it's not late then. We'll have a couple more dances and take a ride to cool off."

"I ought to go home," faintly.

"Don't talk to me, kid. You know me. Come on, let's trot."

Jim decided to keep his eye on the couple, and when they left the dance hall, just as it was closing, he followed them to the chummy roadster that was parked in the court. Then, unknown to them, he managed to fit himself in the arch of the spare tire and rode away with them into the night. Leaving the macadam road, after a while, Harry shot recklessly down a sand path and drew up abruptly beside an old bath house facing the water.

With a daredevil's laugh, he seized the girl in his arms and started running toward the water. "I'm going to duck you."

The girl struggled fiercely, kicking her legs in the air, but the man did not stop until he came to the edge of the water, where he lowered her until she nearly touched. Then lifting her, he held her close, giving her long rough kisses.

"Come on up on the sand, and I'll tell you all about it," he suggested.

"No you don't."

Harry and the girl turned, to see Jim looming dark and threatening against the sky. "You've gone far enough Harry Scott. Any girl is a fool to trust you, but even fools are worth saving some times. You'll drive us back to town at once."

"Say, who are you?"

"Your nemesis. I should say—one who has got your number. Shall we go?"

"Oh I'm not any worse than all the other guys." Harry growled sulkily, not daring to oppose Jim.

"More's the pity then," said Jim. "The world would be well rid of all you summer flirts."

An Auto Fuel Economizer.

The Curtis Auxiliary Fuel Mixer, which is being demonstrated at the "Doc" Smith garage, Clinton avenue, is creating a great interest among the automobilists who have been watching its workings, as the use of it is said to allow auto owners not only to save considerable gasoline but to add 25 per cent more of travel to each gallon of gasoline. It is a simple appliance easily attached and the cost is not large.

If you want to be an old maid, kiss your sweetheart goodnight

This was the cheerful information conveyed to girls of America by Dr. Charles E. Baker, eminent psychologist, in an address here in which he brought forward a solution for the age-old problem, "Sweet Sixteen, Can I Kiss You Good-Night?"

"There is nothing wrong," declared Dr. Baker, "In a young man giving his girl a kiss before he parts with her at night.

"There is nothing wrong in that—but, girls, don't let them do it."

Continuing the psychologist said:

"More girls have been robbed of future husbands as a result of the good night kiss than for any other reason. Girls do you want me to tell you a secret? Well, it's this. After a man kisses a girl he doesn't want her."

Jack: "That girl's like tissue paper."
Chan: "How's that?"
Jack: "Tearable?"

PENS LONG USED

Writing Instruments Are of Great Antiquity.

Records Prove They Are as Old as the Sword—Constructed of Many Materials.

The pen is one of the oldest instruments men use. Whether or not it is mightier than the sword, as Bulwer Lytton makes the great French cardinal exclaim in the play of "Richelieu," it is perhaps of as great antiquity as the sword. It is not as old as stone-headed war clubs or stone axes, but it seems to date back to the beginning of men's knowledge of metals and their alloys. As soon as men got the idea of inscribing symbols on stones as representing things or words, they used an iron instrument which was the parent, or the ancestor, of the pen. There were pens of iron and bronze and reeds, and later the quills of feathers.

The Assyrian kings and scribes and the Phoenecians 2,000 years before Christ proclaimed their dynasties with decrees written with pens made from reeds and feathers. The early Greeks inscribed their letters with a stylus, but the later Greeks wrote with the quills of geese, crows, hawks and eagles. Pens of brass and silver were in use in Rome at the beginning of the Christian era.

The stylus with which many of the Greeks and Romans wrote was something like an iron bodkin and it came to be used so often in brawls that it was prohibited—that is, men were prohibited to use a stylus. The bodkin in old English times was no doubt a big darning or knitting needle and Hamlet had that instrument in mind when he said: "When he his quietus might make with a bare bodkin."

There are various references in the Bible to pens. In the Book of Judges, the fifth chapter and the fourteenth verse, is this: "Out of Machir came down governors, and out of Zebulum they that handle the pen of the writer." In I Kings, the twenty-first chapter, in the matter of Ahab, Jezebel and Naboth it is written: "So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, and sealed them with his seal and sent the letters unto the elders and to the nobles that were in his city, dwelling with Naboth." In the nineteenth chapter of Job, the twenty-third and twenty-fourth verses, is this: "Oh that my words were now written! Oh that they were printed in a book! That they were graven with an iron pen and lead in rock forever!" The eighth chapter of Isaiah begins, Take thee a great roll, and write in it with a man's pen concerning Maher-shalal-hash-baz." In the Third Epistle of John occurs this: "I had many things to write, but I will not with ink and pen write to thee."

Pens of steel, gold and silver appeared in Great Britain, France and America about 1800 but they were very slow in gaining favor. They were expensive, clumsy and not as satisfactory as the quill. But the quill had reached the limit in the nicety with which it could be pointed and the gold and steel pens continued to be improved in their smoothness and flexibility. The first fountain pen was patented about 1830 and the number of patents granted on fountain pens now reaches into the thousands.

Chilean Grapes Imported.

An experimental shipment of grapes was sent from Chile to New York, with a view of ascertaining whether a market could be found in the United States for the product of the Chilean vineyards. The grapes were shipped in cold storage and are reported to have arrived in excellent condition, and to have been sold at highly satisfactory prices. It is reported that another shipment is planned as soon as arrangements can be made. The experiment is of particular interest, since it is possible that the exportation of fresh fruit from Chile to the United States might become very profitable, providing shipping facilities were available. Chile produces fine fruit of almost every variety known to the temperate zone, and it ripens during the winter months in the United States, when the market would be at its best.

Paper Movies.

Paper instead of celluloid for movies is being tried abroad, it is said, at a tremendous saving of expense, and little decrease in excellence. Opaque paper may be used many times without wearing away. Such a revolution in cost is desirable, of course, but if clear photographs can be made through paper we shall be surprised. The materials of which paper is made may be made translucent to ordinary vision, but hardly transparent; although the light rays now in control of men achieve wonders through obstacles the natural sight of man cannot pierce.

Rubber for Tires.

Nearly 400,000,000 pounds of crude rubber were used last year in the manufacture of automobile tires in America. Of this immense total Brazil contributed more than 58,000,000 pounds, the Dutch East Indies an equal or slightly larger amount, and the British Straits Settlements nearly five times as much as either of the other places named. In addition supplies were drawn from the Belgian Congo, French Africa, Venezuela, Mexico, Peru and Panama.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Chinese Widows Seldom Marry.

In China the remarriage of widows is regarded as an impropriety, and in wealthy families is seldom practiced, but among the poorer classes necessity often requires a widow to seek another husband.

PRINT ELEVEN BILLION NEWSPAPERS A YEAR

Dailies Enough in Country to Supply Copy to Every Three and One-half Persons.

More than 11,226,000,000 copies of daily newspapers are printed annually in the United States, averaging one copy a day for every three and one-fifth persons of the country's total population, latest statistics of the bureau of the census show.

Circulation of the nation's 2,433 daily newspapers aggregated 32,786,937 copies a day, an increase of 15.8 per cent in the five years. The circulation of the 592 Sunday newspapers was 19,929,894 copies each Sunday during 1919, an increase of 14.9 per cent.

The aggregate circulation of these daily and Sunday newspapers, therefore, was 11,270,559,816 copies, or 106.6 copies per capita for the year.

Total circulation of the country's 20,431 newspapers and periodicals aggregated 15,475,145,102 copies for the year, an increase of 7 per cent per issue in five years. That includes daily, Sunday, triweekly, semiweekly, weekly, quarterly and all other newspapers and periodicals.

The printing and publishing industry's products were valued in 1919 at $1,528,856,503, of which newspapers and periodicals contributed $806,066,035, and newspapers alone $612,718,515, an increase of 116 per cent in five years. Newspaper subscriptions and sales aggregated $204,952,214, an increase of 105.9 per cent. Advertising totaled $407,760,301, an increase of 121.5 per cent.

SERVES TWO JAIL TERMS; IS INNOCENT OF CRIME

All England is interested in the pathetic case of Mrs. Rose E. Gooding of Littlehampton, who was recently released from Portsmouth prison after serving more than eight months of two sentences for crimes of which she has just been proven innocent. Mrs. Gooding, who is the mother of two small children, was sentenced to fourteen months and twelve days on being convicted of writing libelous messages. She appealed and a decision was rendered against her. An investigation by Scotland Yard, recently completed, proved that it would have been impossible for Mrs. Gooding to have committed the offense of which she had been convicted and sentenced. She was ordered released by the court of criminal appeal in London. The photo was taken after Mrs. Gooding's release.

TRAIN PASSES OVER GIRL

Miss Schnupp Was Not Hurt Bodily But Was Unnerved.

Miss Agnes Schnupp, twenty-two years old, of Jeannette, Pa., apparently failing to hear the approach of a fast passenger train, started to walk along the Pennsylvania railroad near the Jeannette station.

Blinded by the glare of the headlight of the engine, Miss Schnupp stood still for a moment as the big engine bore down on her. Then she threw herself between the tracks and the train passed over her.

Scores of persons standing on the station platform thought the young woman had been killed as she dropped in front of the train. Miss Schnupp, however, while unnerved, was able to walk to her home where it was found she had suffered no injury.

WORK FOR CENT A MONTH

Germans Enter United States Ports as Seamen and Then Flee to Interior.

Large numbers of Germans are shipping at German ports on American bound vessels as seamen, at wages of one cent a month, Chairman A. P. Lasker of the shipping board, has advised Secretary of Labor Davis.

The belief was expressed by Secretary Davis that the Germans are permitted to land in this country as seamen and then flee to the interior.

Until a treaty is signed with Germany, it was explained, it will not be legal for German citizens to enter the United States.

Unemployed Set Fire to Lumber Yard

Disappointed over their failure to obtain jobs in a lumber yard in East London, England, which advertised for 30 men, 3,000 unemployed laborers broke into the premises and set fire to a stock of lumber valued at $3,000,000.

Disease Delayed.

One curious point which is shown in insurance tables is that those organic diseases which are so frequent in mid-life develop at a period from five to ten years later than they did fifty years ago.

How Alum Is Made.

Common alum, sometimes called potash alum, is the result of a decomposition of sandstone called alum shale. If the shale is broken up by exposure to the weather, iron of pyrite in the rock dissolves and the sulphur combines with the aluminum to form aluminum sulphate, which is made into alum by adding potassium sulphate. The shale may also be decomposed by roasting the residue from which is digested with sulphuric acid, yield ing aluminum sulphate. To this potassium sulphate is then added, the resultant crystals constituting the alum. Ammonium alum is artificially made by combining ammonium sulphate with aluminum sulphate as previously described. The low cost of ammonium sulphate, obtained as by-product in the manufacture of illuminating gas, has led to the substitution of this alum in commerce for potassium alum. The properties of the two are similar, though the ammonium compound is less soluble in water.

First Official Railway Mail Car.

It was on July 28, 1862, that the first official railway mail car trial took place. The idea was conceived in the mind of William A. Davis, who was postmaster at St. Joseph, Mo., at the time. This first mail car was improvised out of an ordinary baggage coach in which were arranged the necessary pigeonholes and benches. The run was from Hannibal, Mo., to St. Joseph on the Hannibal & St. Joseph railway. The mail car demonstrated its utility and at once became a success and was adopted for all trunk railroads. It was through the good offices of Montgomery Blair, postmaster general in President Lincoln's cabinet, that the operation of this railway mail car was made possible.

MAKE REAL SILK PURSE OUT OF EAR OF A SOW

Chemists Upset Ancient Maxim by Spying on the Work of the Industrious Silkworm.

A silk purse made from sows' ears, as chemistry's answer to the old saying that it couldn't be done, was shown at the chemistry exposition in New York recently.

In announcing the successful result of experiments, Arthur D. Little, Inc., chemists and engineers of Cambridge, Mass., said the silk was not very strong and that there was no present industrial value in the process involved. It was more or less the product of chemistry at play, but a contribution also to philosophy in proving the fallacy of the old proverb.

In reciting the factors that entered into the transition of sows' ears from Chicago stockyards to a silk purse such as a woman might carry, the chemists explained that the first step was to analyze the silkworm's method of making silk. This done, its caterpillar chemistry was copied in the laboratory.

It was found that man had to provide a substitute for a process by which the silkworm exudes from two fine ducts in its head minute threads of a viscous liquid, coated with another secretion, which are cemented into a double strand. This becomes a firm filament of silk when it coagulates on reaching the air.

Analysis of this viscous liquid showed it to be like glue and with somewhat similar chemical properties. The sow's ear being chiefly gristle and skin, also has the natural elements of glue. This was obtained from the ears and it was put through several processes of preparation, filtered under pressure and placed in spinning apparatus of a special design.

The solution of glue and chemicals came out as sixteen very fine colorless streams, joined into one composite fiber, treated to give it strength and color and processed yet again to obtain the desired soft silk feel. The weaving followed on a small hand loom, the fabric was formed and the purse made.

CHILD SUICIDES INCREASE

More Girls Than Boys Make Up Number—Nearly Double Last Year.

A world-wide increase in suicides has taken place during the first six months of this year, according to statistics of the Save-a-Life league. In New York City there were 443 suicides, of which 319 were men and 124 women. This is an increase of 102 over the same period for 1920.

While 225 children ended their lives in the United States during the first half of 1920, the number has more than doubled this year. The children reported as having committed suicide during the first half of this year were 214 boys and 293 girls. The average age of the boys was sixteen and that of the girls fifteen. Most of the girls took poison, while most of the boys shot themselves.

ROBBER TRAPPED WITH BOOTY

Treasure From Saint's Shrine, Stolen Last November, Recovered by Clever Police Work.

The historic Thirteenth century treasure of St. Elizabeth of Hungary, which was stolen from the saint's shrine at Marburg last November, has been recovered, according to the Berlin correspondent of the London Times, after having been buried in the back garden of a London suburban house.

The recovery is due to the vigilance of the Frankfort police. Six men took part in the robbery last November, and five of them were arrested soon after. There was, however, no sign of the stolen treasury and the men obstinately denied all knowledge of it.

Eventually, the police got up to the track of the sixth man, Emil Kellman. It was found that in the meantime he had been to London; he was watched, however, and on his return he was arrested. During his detention the inquiries of the detective led the police to believe that Kellman had hidden the jewels in England. It was assumed that if he were set free, he would probably get them. He was therefore let out on bail; at the same time he was kept under strict but secret surveillance by the police. On June 15 Kellman went to London to fetch the jewels and on his return a few days ago he was rearrested at Cleves on the German Dutch frontier, where he was taken red-handed with the missing jewels and pearls, 174 in number, hidden in his clothes.

SURELY HAD HUBBY TRAINED

Little Man Knew His Helpmeet's Whistle and, So to Speak, Governed Himself Accordingly.

The time was Saturday, 5:30 p. m., the place, a local movie house, the girl, a large, robust middle-aged woman.

Rushing up to one of the ushers in the foyer she excitedly cried: "Say, boy, I left my husband in here while I went shopping. Our car leaves in five minutes and he ain't out here. Don't want to buy a ticket; how can I get him?"

"We aren't allowed to page any one," replied the usher, "but if you describe him perhaps I can find him."

The woman apparently did not hear a word he said.

"Do you care if I whistle for him?" she asked.

Thinking she was only joking he said: "Go to it."

Immediately a shrill and weird whistle startled the quiet audience.

A meek little man sitting well toward the front jumped as though shot, bolted up the aisle, appeared in the foyer and meekly ran in the wake of the robust woman who was rapidly making tracks for the interurban station.—Indianapolis News.

Are We Living Off a Coal Bin?

Floyd W. Parsons writes in the World's Work:

From the time we rise until the day is done, we maintain an intimate association, either with coal itself or one of its by-products. The leavening agent in our bread and the gas we bake it with are from coal; so are the agents that tan our shoes and that vulcanize the rubber of our automobile tires. We are indebted to coal for the various forms of ammonia that go into fertilizing, refrigerating, electric batteries and household uses; for aspirin, salicylic acid and many other cures for common colds; for elements used in manufacturing, insulating, coatings, phonograph records and pipestems; for benzol, the best available fuel for automobile and internal-combustion engines; for food preservatives, mothballs and disinfectants. While coal furnishes us picric acid and trinitrotoluol, it also carries locked in itself oil of wintergreen and the most delicate flavoring extracts and perfumes.

"Umslopogaas."

Sir Rider Haggard has revealed to the world that that valiant warrior and strategist "Umslopogaas" is not a mere creature of imagination. He was a Swazi chieftain of high and noble lineage, who had been a warrior before he took service under the British flag. Years after Sir Rider had enshrined the chief in fiction, the fact was mentioned to him, and Umslopogaas expressed his delight that Lubdanda (Sir Rider Haggard) had written a book to show that once there was a Zulu people with mighty kings. But who was "She" and where did "She" come from? Years ago it was suggested that Sir Rider got his inspiration from Moore's "Epicurean"; he denied the allegation, but he never told her real origin. It is better so—"She" was spun of the web of mystery.

Man Wants but Little; But Woman—

Alice went with her brother, Ben, to see her first boxing exhibition. Through the entire set of preliminaries she sat with a blase air of a regular boxing fan. Then when the main battle began she yelled with the best of them. In the seventh round of the battle there was a surprise in the form of a knockout. The crowd went wild. Alice cheered and cheered. After a time she and Ben pushed their way through the crowd to the street.

"Well, how did you like it?" Ben asked.

"It was wonderful!" Alice enthused. "But I never saw anyone act so stingy. They might at least have given one encore."

Her Description.

HIGH SCHOOL P-T ASSOCIATION

Interesting Addresses At First Fall Session—New Teacher Likes Kingston—Afternoon Tea To Defray Expenses Of Delegate.

The first regular meeting of the Kingston High School Parent-Teachers' Association was held at the High School in the Board of Education room Wednesday evening, September 14. A large number of parents and teachers attended, among them many parents whose sons or daughters are just entering the high school.

President DeWitt welcomed the gathering and outlined the important work for the coming year. Secretary M. S. Safford of the Y. M. C. A., who has a son passing through high school, urged a large membership in the P-T Association, pointed out some of the good things that could be accomplished and the efforts made by such associations in Texas and other states. Dr. Chas. G. Ellis, who also has a son at high school, was then called upon and gave a very interesting sketch touching upon work of the association. Vice Pres James A McCommons was welcomed by Chairman DeWitt, thanked for the support always given, and asked by the chairman for a few words. Mr. McCommons felt that the association ought to do work essential to the welfare of the young folks, thus not only being "good" but "good for something" "We cannot say to teachers you are not doing your work right but we should secure the membership and attendance of teachers and get them to express themselves as to the need in improving their work Find out what we can do to help our teachers and half the battle is won" Vice President McCommons stated that perhaps later he will have some definite suggestions to make.

Professor Lewis principal of the high school, brought a message from his institution. He felt that the opening this year was the best since his coming to Kingston; 780 enrolled, with 128 in senior class: more freshmen than ever also. Although all teachers are just now overworked all are doing wonderfully well, forming and starting their classes. The program has worked out well. Registering took place first day and study classes commenced on 2nd. day Pressure of work on principal especially heavy at this time also. "I feel that we have the strongest faculty since taking principalship of Kingston High School"

Along the lines of school activities Prof. Lewis would like a discussion at some time on the desirability of the many societies in the High School He is in favor of what is being done at his school. The Webster-Hayne debating club, the Audubon the French club, the Prisma, Athletic Association and others are all of great benefit to the student but not understood by the public generally Prof. Lewis expressed himself well pleased with last year's work at the school. 84% of those trying examinations passed and five scholarships first on the list secured by this county all go to K H. students entering college in this state. These mean $100 per year for 4 years to each. Chairman DeWitt reflected the felings of his hearers in expressing pride and satisfaction aroused by Prof Lewis's enlightening remarks.

A very able and efficient new member of the High School faculty, Mr. Norton of Utica, teacher of mathematics, being present, was invited by Mr. DeWitt to take the floor. The speaker proved to be a very earnest and convincing talker and stated that he was well and favorably impressed with Kingston and its beautiful high school "I never entered a high school which inspires one as does K. H. S. There is a fine school spirit all around. The work among the young is inspiring and interesting. Your principal inspires us all: I know him well. we were at college together. I like all my fellow teachers on the faculty also. The fine community spirit of Kingston appeals to me People call on me. It is hard to find a home here. Mr Chairman, though Kingston compares favorably with all other places I have been in, not excepting even Utica." Mr. Norton touched on the plans for the future of the P-T Association and his statements were well received. Miss Davis, head of the Domestic Science classes, and Miss Cordes language instructress, were heard also. Miss Cordes brought to the attention of the association the activities of the Prisma society of the high school and heir first entertainment on October 7 when Miss Grace Sage, well known reader, will appear. Tickets for students will be 25c public 50c, and a most interesting and delightful evening is promised.

Mrs. Whiston moved that Mrs. R. E Leighton be chosen delegate to the Rochester convention of P-T associations Oct. 4-7. Carried.

Miss Davis consented to hold an afternoon tea at the high school, September 27, Tuesday, 3 to 4:30 p. m., under auspices of the girls of the cooking classes, tickets 25 cents, money to defray expenses of delegate to convention. Public is including parents and teachers.

By invitation of our esteemed employers, Messrs James and William Byrne, we went their guests, and enjoyed the pleasant ride with them in their touring cars and feasted to our perfect satisfaction. The long lines of waiting visitors would seem to suggest the enlargement of the tables and the baking department of this growing and popular event. BLOCK PARTY FRIDAY EVENING

The moonlight block party at Academy Park tomorrow night which will open the membership drive of the Woman's Auxiliary of Kingston Post, No. 150, of the American Legion, promises to be the biggest affair of its kind ever held in Kingston, and tickets today were selling very fast.

The membership booth will be located at the corner of Clinton avenue and Maiden Lane, and the wife, mother or sister of every ex-service man is requested to register at that booth. The booth will be in charge of Miss Madelen Woerner, secretary of the auxiliary, who will be assisted by Mrs. Charles Dixon and Mrs. R. Frederic Chidsey, chairman of the membership committee.

Maiden Lane will be roped off between Clinton avenue and Broadway, with entrances at each end of the block, and tickets will be sold at each entrance. Nobody will be allowed within the dancing space unless properly tagged at either of the entrances.

Music for dancing will be furnished by Muller's band of eighteen pieces. The Maiden Lane block is ideal for dancing and the band of eighteen pieces will make it possible for the entire block to be devoted to that purpose.

The membership booth as well as booths for refreshments, cigars and cigarettes will be erected near the corner of Clinton avenue and Maiden Lane tomorrow morning, all the material necessary for the booths having been donated. Cigars and cigarettes for the party have been donated by Van Slyke & Horton, Fitzpatrick & Draper and the F. B. Matthews Company, Inc.

Colored lights will be strung to illuminate the street and park, which will present a brilliant appearance. Members of Kingston Post American Legion will attend the party in a body and a large number of visitors from various parts of Ulster county is expected in addition to the men and women of Kingston who are interested in strenghtening the auxiliary.

Mayor Canfield will open the party with a brief address at eight o'clock. Entertainment will be furnished by Miss Rose Kefer, a talented entertainer of New York city who will appear in fancy dances and new song hits, and by Louis Barzier, first violin of the National Symphony Orchestra, with Miss Marie Vande Putte as accompanist. The piano for the use of the party has been donated by Rose-Gorman-Rose.

Because of the worthy cause for which the block party is to be given and the interest which is being taken in the efforts of the women who worked at all times to provide comforts for the men of their family while the latter were in service during the war, the attendance tomorrow night should break all previous records.

CENSURE BRITISH NEW RICH

War Profiteers Don't Give to Charity, as They Should, Old Aristocracy Charges.

The English "new rich" have to bear almost as much criticism as the prime minister, and from almost as mixed a source. Their natural enemies are the poor and the new poor, and the latter element seems to feel strongest on the subject. The aristocracy have taken lately to publishing their sentiments about the people who have usurped their place. One of the charges they make is that the new rich don't know how to give, and that as a result hospitals and charitable institutions are being forced to close up. It may not be, say the aristocracy dubiously, that the new rich are wilfully selfish. But they are not used to money, and so are not used to giving it away. Another allegation, made by a peppery daughter of an impoverished duke, was that the new rich had never done anything to make the world beautiful and that as a class they had produced no great art or literature.

Socially the new rich have to bear the brunt of all the changes. An actress said the other day that she never saw before the war the people who now fill the stalls in the theaters. The people with good manners who used to sit in stalls before the war have disappeared and their successors lack breeding. One day somebody ate oranges in the stalls and the feeling of calamity in aristocratic circles was strong for weeks.

Extremes in styles are also blamed on the women of the profiteer class, who are declared by their enemies to have learned the art of dressing in their original homes in the East end of London.—Mary Henke in Los Angeles Express.

IF SHE COULD HAVE KNOWN!

Detroit Girl Probably Will Always Feel That Fate Has Been Most Unkind to Her.

Some women rush into marriage, but others give thought to what the economic experts say a man should be earning and have in the bank before taking unto himself a wife.

Few will question that the latter course is the sensible one, observes the Providence Journal. But it has its exceptions, like everything else. One of the most romantic of them, perhaps, is contained in a recent news dispatch from Detroit, telling how an engine-room worker in one of the city hotels at 30 cents an hour was spurned by the girl of his dreams because she was sure that he would never be able to support her.

In less than a week after the spurning the man received a message from a Toledo attorney saying that he was one of three heirs to a $15,000,000 estate in California. Fiction, which revels in the happy ending, would have had the lucky one repeat his offer of marriage and meet with quick and maybe tearful acceptance, and then would have given us a pretty word picture of the smiling couple whirling westward on a train de luxe.

But truth is cold and exact. The engine-room worker simply said good-by to the girl who had rejected him and went to lay claim to his inheritance—alone.

Was this decision correct? And will the young woman, if her hand is sought again by some humble but steady workman, consider his earning capacity above his desire to make her his helpmate?

Rush to Stake Gold Claims.

It is reported that gold hunters are swarming over the country drained by the Wapshe river, New Brunswick, and panning the sands of the stream in search of the yellow metal. The prospectors are looking for the Gilbertson lode. The story is told how Gilbertson made a canoe trip up the river some sixty years ago, and while making camp for the night came across a large body of gold-bearing ore. Not knowing what it was, he took home a large piece to use as a door weight. Some time later a geologist, visiting Gilbertson, identified the ore, and a mad rush to stake claims along the Wapshe river ensued. Gilbertson refused to tell where he found the ore. Later he became insane, and died without revealing the secret. This season a systematic search is being made.

It is estimated that nearly nine thousand Chinese are studying abroad, of whom five thousand are in Japan, two thousand in France, fourteen hundred in the United States, four hundred in England, and the others distributed throughout Europe. Of the twenty-five hundred Japanese students abroad, only three hundred are in England. There are three hundred Filipino students in the United States and thirty in Japan. One thousand Indian students are in England.

Queen Alexandra Is Poor.

The poorest member of the British royal family today is Queen Alexandra. Her majesty's allowance from the state is $350,000 a year, but that falls far below what it costs her to maintain Marlborough house and Sandringham. It is said that Queen Alexandra today is only just able, although living in comparative retirement, to make both ends meet and that she could not do but for her private resources, which are by no means large.

WOULD BE POWERFUL NATION

But Separate Nationality for Ukraine Does Not Seem to Suit the Great Powers.

The Ukrainians are by far the most numerous of the races aspiring to independence through the disappearance of the Romanoffs and Hapsburgs. There are 35,000,000 Ukrainians, most of them in the six southern and southwestern former Russian "governments," or provinces, and in eastern Galicia.

The Ukraine is larger than Germany and twice as large as France. It stretches from the Carpathian mountains to the Black sea and the Caucasus. It contains the oil fields of Galicia and the famous Donetz coal and iron region. Almost all the cereals, cattle, sugar and salt exported from the former Russian empire came from the Ukraine.

If the Ukraine manages to survive and keep within its boundaries the territories in which its race predominates, it will be the most populous and the richest of the new states created by the war, and next to Russia, the largest country in Europe.

An independent Ukraine, however, does not seem to fit in with the interests of the victors in the World war, as these interests are conceived by their statesmen. Hence every possible effort is being made to deny the existence of a Ukrainian race. During the last few years the most absurd and unfounded statements about the Ukrainians have been circulated and have gained credence.—Herbert Adams Gibbons in the Century Magazine.

COMFORT FOR THE AVIATOR

Electrically Heated Coat Protects Against Extreme Cold Encountered in the High Altitudes.

An electrically heated garment, designed especially for use by aviators, has been developed by the genius of an Italian, Antonangelo Negromanti of Milan. It has certain very novel features.

In the high reaches of the atmosphere, into which aviators ascend, there is even in summer time cold so severe that the thickest garments of padded and fur-trimmed leather do not afford adequate protection.

The Negromanti coat is woven of threads which, both warp and weft, are electrically resistant wires coated with a fireproof insulating material—asbestos or silk.

The wires are connected with a source of electric current (which may be a battery of accumulators), and also with an apparatus which contains an aneroid barometer. The latter instrument is associated with a thermostatic tube in such a way as to vary the electrical resistance of the wires composing the coat.

Thus, because of the barometric control of the electric current, the coat gives increasing warmth as the flying machine attains higher and higher altitudes. The higher the aviator goes the more the heat furnished for his comfort by the garment he wears.—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Eye Test by Ear.

Apropos of the oral method of instruction at present in vogue, a bachelor professor in one of the San Francisco medical schools tells a story on himself in connection with a clinic patient turned over to him for an eye examination.

Doctor Blank put the chart on the wall and commanded a small and shrinking six-year-old to read what he saw on it.

The child began painstakingly with a strange assortment of grunts and hisses. "Guh! Buh! Tuh! B-r-r-r!! Ul—"

Here the doctor interrupted.

"No, no!" he commanded impatiently. "Don't make those sounds! Just read—read what's up there."

The little boy looked grieved and bewildered, and evidently decided he was not putting enough steam into his performance.

"Duh!" he ejaculated explosively. "Puh! Kuh! U-r-r-r!"

The poor child was red in the face, and the doctor about to hand him over to the office nurse to be taken down to the neurological clinic as a probable idiot, when the mother gently interfered and enlightened the ignorant bachelor.

Her little one had been taught to read by the phonetic method.

GOVERN ISLAND LIKE VESSEL

In Guam the Usual Routine of a Naval Ship Is Observed With Scrupulousness.

The routine of a naval establishment gives an unusual amount of life to the plaza of Agana, Guam. Every morning at 8 o'clock the full band assembles before the palace and the halyards of the two flag staffs are manned by marines. Promptly at the first stroke of "eight bells," the band plays the "Star Spangled Banner," and the national flag and the Union Jack are hauled up, while everyone in sight and hearing stands at attention. All the children of the primary grades have previously assembled in formation on the parade ground itself and after "colors" they go through calisthenic exercises while the band plays suitable music.

On Sunday mornings the men of Agana are exercised in military drill, which is compulsory for all the able-bodied men within certain age limits. While they have a standard or uniform dress, this is worn only on special occasions. Yet dress parade is a truly dignified affair, for the youths maintain that erect and self-reliant carriage which is so characteristic of native races.

Occasionally a most interesting drill is witnessed of the "carabao cavalry," as it is called, although the mounts are not water buffalo but domestic cattle. All through the day the bells tell the time as on shipboard and bugles sound the calls that direct the military life of the station. Again at 7 o'clock in the evening the musicians assemble at the bandstand and play classical and other selections for an hour, while the officers and their families stroll about in the cool of the evening.

RELIEF FOR HEAT SUFFERERS

English Savant Who Probably Knows Offers Some Advice on the Problem of Keeping Cool.

The obvious expedient of avoiding exposure to the sun, "stimulating" foods and drinks, and the use of dark and heat-retaining garments is not always sufficient to keep the human body cool. In spite of these precautions, many persons suffer from heat languor ("thermal debility"), to the detriment of their health and efficiency.

It is nearly one hundred years since the Silesian peasant Priessnitz reintroduced the curative use of cold. One of his procedures was to immerse the back of his head in a shallow vessel of cold water.

We know now that external cold is a powerful stimulant to the nerve centers at the base of the brain, which govern the heart and breathing and regulation of body heat. In hot summers heat is insidiously piled up in the tissues, and sometimes thermal debility passes on to thermal fever or "heat stroke."

Anybody may prove for himself the refreshing coolness produced by bathing the nape of the neck and the spine and the inner side of the arms with ice-cold water. As regards the prevention and cure of heat-stroke, the experience of the troops in hot climates has shown the same efficacy of cold when applied on a more extensive scale.—From a Letter in the London Times.

Saved by His Cuffs.

"There's superstition personified," said the tailor, as he nodded in the direction of an elderly man who was being fitted for a suit. "He's so superstitious that he wears cuffs on the trousers of his dress suit."

"What has his wearing cuffs on the trousers of his dress suit got to do with superstition?" the tailor was asked.

"That man claims that cuffs on his trousers have saved him hundreds of dollars during his life and he refuses to go without them now, even in evening clothes," the tailor retorted. "Once he said he dropped a diamond ring somewhere and thought he had lost it until he got home that night and discovered it in the cuff of his trousers. Another time he lost a scarfpin, which he also later found in the same place. After several other similar instances the old man came to believe that cuffs were good luck and now, despite my pleadings, he insists on wearing them."

Phones to Suit Patrons.

"Speaking of service!" exclaimed the traveling man as he stood in front of one of the telephone booths in the Pennsylvania station, the New York Sun reports, "and consideration of the public. You'd never get that anywhere except in New York."

"Well," grinned a guard who was standing by, "we strive to please, so when we found that some folks were too short to reach the telephones if they were high, and others had to almost bend double to talk over them if they were low, we decided we'd have 'em arranged accordingly. So we have some for the tall guys and some for the little dolls, and a few that both can use as they've got stools before them to sit on if you're lucky enough to get one."

Venerable Ministers.

Dr. Oliver S. Baketel of New York is the authority for the statement that there are 30 ministers more than ninety years of age in active service in the Methodist Episcopal church. The oldest is the Rev. Seth Reed of Flint, Mich., who is ninety-eight, while another is nearly ninety-seven, and three are ninety-six.

COAST LEAKS BOTHER HAYNES

Prohibition Commissioner Has New Plans To Plug Up Holes Through Which Booze Is Still Smuggled In In Huge Quantities From Foreign Ports.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 15.—New moves to stop smuggling of liquors through Atlantic ports were decided upon today by prohibition enforcement officials. Commissioner Haynes, returning from an inspection ofenforcement work in Ohio, turned his attention to the smuggling problem, when he reviewed fresh reports that told of new and more daring exploits all along the coast.

Officials were careful to conceal their detailed plan of attack on the smugglers. But in a general way, the program to check the steady and increasing flow of whiskey and other intoxicants coming in from abroad is this: Larger forces are to be concentrated at coast ports. Harbor patrols are to be strengthened and better co-operation sought from harbor authorities.

The American consular service may be asked to co-operate in tracing liquor shipped from foreign ports.

The situation at New York and some other large ports has shown but slight improvement so far as smuggling is concerned and there still is noticed an apparently inexhaustible flow of imported liquors into small towns and cities all along the Atlantic coast

Attorney-General Daugherty's strong advocacy of better law observance and his warning that violators will be sternly dealt with, led today to suggestions that the government eventually may build up a regular coast patrol, as a part of the prohibition unit.

TO ANNUL MARRIAGE.

Action By Marlborough Summer Resident In Supreme Court.

A hearing was had before Judge Hasbrouck at supreme court chambers this morning in the action to annul the marriage of Victoria Candido Friedenson and Louis Friedenson, who were married at the Bronx borough hall, New York city, on July 22 of this year. The action was brought by Michale Candido, father of the girl, on the ground that his daughter was under the age of eighteen years, having been born December 8, 1903. Mr. Candido is in business in Brooklyn and has a large summer home at Marlborough. Friedenson was a chauffeur and induced the girl to marry him but they did not live together. Five days later Mr. Candido had himself appointed guardian litem of his daughter for the purpose of bringing the action to annul the marriage. Judge Hasboruck reserved decision. Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance on the part of the defendant.

WESTERNER IS KIWANIS GUEST

W. D. Lewis, father of Principal Lewis of the Kingston High School, who resides at Milwaukee with another son, gave the Kiwanis Club a talk about the west today noon which ranged from Wisconsin and its wonderful cheeses to the enterprise of Los Angeles citizens who, when they couldn't borrow the money any other way, bonded their city for $10,000,000 to build an artificial harbor at San Pedro. Wisconsin was described the wonder state in dairy products, 67 per cent of all the cheese made in this country coming from there, as well as 50 per cent of the butter; the rentals from docks and lands surrounding Los Angeles's nearly completed harbor already yield a return to the city equal to the interest on $50,000,000 at 6 per cent.

The state convention of Kiwanis clubs will be held at Auburn October 6 and 7 and the local club hopes to have a goodly delegation present.

Water-Finder Finds Minerals.

A reader in Dorset, Vt., writes that he is a water-finder. He uses a forked stick but can not explain what power causes it to point downward when he is passing over water. Not only can he locate water, but by placing a small piece of lead in the end of the stick he is able to find lead when under the ground, once locating a buried pipe for a farmer. He can also locate copper.—Montreal Herald.

FISH STORY MADE DEER CROSS EYED

Al Whispell, the champion trout fisherman of the Catskill Mountains, and proprietor of the Central House at Phoenicia, was in Kingston Tuesday on business and while here visited Forsyth Park, where the deer which he presented to the city of Kingston is cared for.

The deer was captured near Shaft No. 7, of the Shandaken tunnel some time ago after being chased by dogs until it was exhausted. Men employed on the tunnel placed the deer in one of the shanties where it would be safe from dogs, and telephoned to Mr. Whispell.

By the time Mr. Whispell arrived at the shanty, dogs had chased another deer from the woods into the underbrush. The dogs were called off and the men attempted to lassoo the deer. The deer became entangled in one of the ropes and in jumping broke its back. The other deer was safely procured by Mr. Whispell, who placed it in his automobile and after the necessary steps had been taken with the conservation commission, brought it to Forsyth Park, where it has completely recovered from its fright, and long ago became accustomed to the many visitors at the park.

Mr. Whispell says there is every indication that there will be an unusually fine hunting season the coming fall. Game is more plentiful than it has been in a number of years, due to the mild weather last winter and also to the efforts of the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association and the state conservation commission.

"Little Al," as Mr. Whispell calls the deer at Forsyth Park, appeared to recognize Mr. Whispell as its benefactor and on previous occasions of Mr. Whispell's visits to the park came over to the fence when he spoke to it. "Al." told the deer about some of the big trout which he had caught during the summer and the deer listened intently. As "Al." began explaining his trout stories, he illustrated the size of the fish with his hands and arms When he began, his hands were about eight inches apart, but as he continued to talk his hands went farther apart until "Al." noticed that the tears were streaming from the eyes of the deer Looking more closely at the deer's eyes, he noticed they were looking at different directions, the deer evidently having tried to keep an eye on each of "Al's" hands until the effort drew forth tears from the strain.

Next time Mr. Whispell tells any trout stories, he will illustrate them with photographs instead of his hands. He has photographs of some of the thousands of trout he has caught during his life which almost would bear out the length indicated by the stretch of his arms when talking to the Forsyth Park deer on Tuesday.

"Were you measuring alligators?" asked one of his interested listeners at Forsyth Park.

"Young man," said the champion, "I never talk about anything I don't know about. My specialty is Catskill Mountain trout."

White Rose COFFEE

New York's Own Drink

WHITE ROSE COFFEE is packed air-tight because it has to be if it is to reach the critical New Yorkers' tables the only way they like it—full flavored and with that "well-roasted" taste.

It couldn't arrive at your table with that flavor and strength if the precious volatile oils were allowed to escape—the very thing that happens a hundred times a day to bulk coffee bought from a bin that the grocer constantly opens.

White Rose Coffee has been specially packed to meet New York's discriminating coffee taste.

Decision.

However many guilty are offered we can take but one. But when we decide upon a course it is folly to allow the mind to wander continually along the others, speculating concerning their possible advantages and wondering whether, after all, some other way might not have been better. The real road grows more difficult by persistently fancy to paint the others as smoother.—Exchange.

LOCAL KIWANIS BEAT PO'KEEPSIE

Gathered 9 Runs While Down River Team Made But 1 and That on an Error—Kingstonians Royally Entertained By Bridge City Club.

Kingston Kiwanis Ball Club and a goodly number of rooters journeyed to Poughkeepsie Tuesday afternoon and crossed bats with the Kiwanis baseball club of the Bridge City.

Modesty will not permit of giving all the details surrounding the unmerciful drubbing Kingston Kiwanians gave Poughkeepsie Kiwanians. At the end of the 7th inning the score was 9 and 1 in favor of Kingston Really the one run was due to an error by the Kingston second baseman and certainly was an accidental gain on the part of Poughkeepsie. Kiwanian Art Davis of ancient baseball fame did the twirling. Art certainly showed his old time form by striking out twelve men. It was rumored in Poughkeepsie that Davis was contemplating returning direct to Kingston without going to the banquet but as soon as he had won the game he decided to stay and receive the plandits of the assembled Kiwanians.

Sam Saulpaugh could not find his baseball suit so he used his bathing suit to play center field It goes without saying that Sam swam all the way through every inning. Johnny Mack covered third in admirable style There is nothing green about Mack even though he did have the name of "emerald" on his shirt It was the first time that the reporter, or in fact any one of the team, ever saw Maurice Safford bend over to get a ball. We did not know the old boy was so limber as he showed up in the game.

Great credit is given to the outfield for not making any errors. Very good reason—no balls got that far. Through the superb coaching of Kiwanian Boessneck we had the Poughkeepsie batteries all out of twist The star play of the day was made by Pitcher Davis when he grabbed a hot liner, fell on his stomach and in a reclining position threw the ball to first.

The box score:

It was rumored that the umpire was paid by the Kingston fans. However Kiwanian Domonick, president of Newburgh Kiwanis, showed good judgment in every tight place He has already invited Kingston Kiwanis baseball club to a game with Newburgh.

After the ball game the members of the Kingston Kiwanis baseball team, accompanied by their Kingston rooters to the number of twenty or more, joined in with the Poughkeepsie Kiwanis Club and motored to Domino Inn where a chicken dinner was served. Vaudeville entertainment ran continuously from eight until ten and the main feature of the evening was a four round bout between Kingston and Poughkeepsie men and the only way that Poughkeepsie Kiwanis had of getting revenge on the Kingston bunch was to have the Poughkeepsie man knock out the Kingston man in the fourth round. The blow was not as heavy as might have been expected because the reporter found the Kingston boxer eating chicken within a period of four minutes after his knockout. Instead of Poughkeepsie accusing Kingston of bribing the baseball umpire we question whether the Kingston boxer was bribed.

All know that it was a wonderfully fine field day for Kiwanis in general and it is hoped that in the near future the Poughkeepsie gang will journey to our city to receive another drubbing.

Tigers Lose 4 Out of 5.

The Tigers were again defeated by the Young Indians by the score of 12 to 2. The feature of the game was a home run by Harry Lavelle of the Indians and a three bagger by Arthur Stelz of the Tigers. The line-ups are as follows: Tigers—A. Stelz, pitcher; W. Hoisopple, catcher; Maines, 1st base; C. Braadt, 2nd base; A Ale, 3rd base; Kruger, left field; Dick Hendricks, center field; [illegible] right field. Young Indians—J. Gallagher, catcher; Charlie Rand, first four innings and Frank Cullen last 5 innings, pitchers; Dougherty, 1st base; Harry Lavelle, 2nd base; Robert Smith, short stop; Philip Peters, 3rd base; Clement Dyer; left field, A. Golnick; center field, Mongy Mercer right field. The Young Indians have won 4 out of the 5 games played.

Irwin in Training.

Roscoe Irwin in an interview in the Catskill Mail, says that in scientific dieting he has reduced his weight in 114 days from 236 to 176 pounds. Mr Irwin is preparing to make the race for the supreme court bench on the Democratic ticket, his nomination being a foregone conclusion says the Mail.

Syracuse, Sept. 15—Peter Manning, driven by Tommy Murphy, of Poughkeepsie, equalled the world's trotting record for all horses, regardless of age, by covering a mile in 1:58 at the State Fair track here Wednesday. Peter Manning was started to beat 2 00, world's record for five year old geldings. Arion Guy, owned by Mrs. Harry K. Devereaux and driven by Murphy, set a new world's record for four year olds by trotting a mile in 2 01 The former record, 2:02, had been held by Peter Volo since 1915. These historic events in light harness history featured the Grand Circuit race program today and were cheered by more than 25,000 spectators.

Peter Manning trotted with the precision of a well oiled piece of machinery. The gelding raced against a running horse and passed the quarter in 30¼ seconds, the half in 59¼ seconds, and the three-quarter pole in 1:28½. When the time, 1:58, tying the mark made by Uhlan at Lexington in 1912 and shattering the state fair track record of two minutes flat made by Major Delmar in 1903 was posted, horse and driver were tendered a noisy ovation.

In addition to these sterling performances with Peter Manning and Arion Guy, Murphy piloted Sillidar to victory in the three year old class trot, capturing the second and third heats after losing the first to Walter Sterling.

OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC.

Not only have the results of our work been satisfactory to thousands in this vicinity, but many sufferers from distant places are continually coming to our offices in Kingston to regain and rebuild their health.

We take pride in the knowledge that we are accomplishing better and surer results than many in our profession.

We have succeeded in evolving a system of painless adjustments which is acknowledged far superior to any method heretofore in use.

This system, combined with the knowledge gained by our very extensive practice, makes it unnecessary that we supplement it with mechanical or electrical devices of unproven merit.

Our invariable rule is to never accept a case that we are not confident we can benefit. A dissatisfied patient can easily cause us more injury than a dozen satisfied boosters can overcome.

Therefore, if your health is below normal in any way, you should call on us and talk it out, with the assurance that there will be no cost or obligation on your part. If you cannot call in person, write or phone, and we shall be glad to mail you information as to how you may have better health by ending the cause of your present ailment. Should we accept your case you too will become a booster for Chiropractic.
